The Immediate Needs

for safe & adequate housing and proper WASH facilities in Vietnam

Major vulnerable groups that we serve

Low-income rural families in Vietnam struggle to secure suitable housing and clean water, exposing them to harsh weather conditions and health risks. Investing in safe housing can improve their well-being, break the cycle of poverty, and contribute to community development.

Families in disaster-prone areas face the loss of their homes and possessions during natural calamities. Building resilient housing in these areas provides a safe haven during emergencies and minimizes the destructive consequences of disasters.

Ethnic minority communities in Vietnam's remote and mountainous areas face difficulties in accessing essential services and housing, resulting in unsafe and inadequate living conditions.

Persons with disabilities encounter challenges in accessing suitable housing and WASH facilities. Ensuring accessible options and inclusive facilities enhances their independence and well-being, enabling them to participate actively in their communities.

Migrant workers will increasingly be driven to live in unsafe and unsanitary conditions as urbanization intensifies. The demand for adequate housing in cities will continue to outpace supply, so the housing deficit will persist and likely worsen.

By working together, we can create a more equitable and sustainable future in Vietnam, where everyone can access safe housing and WASH facilities, regardless of their circumstances.

Funding

With Sustainable Impact

Your financial support is essential to Habitat for Humanity's work in Vietnam. Your investment will help us build safe and adequate housing for vulnerable populations and develop water, sanitation and hygiene (WASH) facilities that meet their needs. Your contribution will also enable us to leverage resources, engage local communities, and create sustainable solutions that have a long-lasting impact.

The table below shows the projects we are currently open to implementing with our corporate partners. Please note that these are samples and we can flexibly tailor the project to suit our partner's preference in terms of location, focus and funding size.

Volunteering

For First-Hand Experience

Engaging our corporate partner's staff in build activities alongside Habitat for Humanity Vietnam staff will deliver real impact and give them a unique opportunity to contribute personally to the cause.

By participating in builds and other related initiatives, your employees can experience first-hand the transformation that safe housing and improved WASH facilities bring to the lives of underprivileged communities. This engagement fosters team building, boosts employee morale, and showcases your organization's commitment to social responsibility.

Habitat for Humanity Vietnam has a wealth of experience and proven capacity to host volunteer groups to build houses. With a strong track record, we have successfully facilitated numerous volunteer-driven construction projects, providing meaningful and impactful experiences for participants while making a tangible difference in the lives of families in need.
